Passports Bill Is Shelved by Senate Group

Associated Press.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee yesterday shelved President Eisenhower's passport bill for the remainder of the session.

The bill would provide the State Department with full authority to deny passports to Communists and Communist sympathizers, and broad new power to prevent American citizens from going into areas the department rules out of bounds.

The committee voted to postpone further hearings on the Administration measure and other passport bills until next year in view of the controversy that has grown up over the issue.
